Better Full-Service Banking now Available to all Los Angeles County Residents through Water and Power Community Credit Union

----LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA – Water and Power Community Credit Union (WPCCU), headquartered in Los Angeles, received approval of its community charter expansion by the California Department of Business Oversight.

The approval means that WPCCU can now serve all people who live, work, worship, or attend college or trade school in Los Angeles County. Previously, WPCCU community membership was limited to the greater Los Angeles area.

“From the mountains to the sea, we’re excited to expand our field of membership. From the Antelope Valley to the San Fernando Valley; from the San Gabriel Valley to the Gateway Cities; from the South Bay to Santa Catalina Island; we can now reach out to all residents of Los Angeles County,” said Celeste Zibelli, Vice President, Marketing and Financial Services. “We can seamlessly serve all people throughout Los Angeles County, bringing them a better banking alternative with a human-centered approach that provides better overall value.”

“We have a deep-rooted history in serving Los Angeles Department of Water and Power employees and their families since 1936,” said Barry Roach, President and Chief Executive Officer. “That will not change. Many residents of the greater Los Angeles area have already chosen to trust us with their banking needs. I am so glad that over six million more people now have the freedom to join us, as we strive to deliver really cool banking solutions for all residents of Los Angeles County.”

About Water and Power Community Credit Union

Water and Power Community Credit Union was formed in 1936 by a group of employees of the Department of Water and Power in downtown Los Angeles. To better reflect its evolving membership, the credit union expanded its field of membership in 2018 to serve the County of Los Angeles. Water and Power Community Credit Union currently has assets of $690 million and serves over 37,000 members. For more information, visit wpcu.org or call 800-300-9728.
